Your Salesmessage onboarding journey

What to expect from sign-up to sending your first text as an organization, so there are no surprises and you go live faster. Every business must be registered and approved before a single message can send.

Read this first

U.S. and Canadian carriers regulate business texting to stop spam. You can't send texts or calls until your business is registered and approved by the carriers (10DLC or Toll-Free). We prepare and submit this for you, but the final approval is controlled by the carriers. It usually takes several business days and occasionally longer.

The five stages at a glance

1. Welcome & kickoff	Day 0–3
2. Compliance & registration	The gate
3. Account setup	In parallel
4. Training	Before launch
5. Go-live & support	~Day 20+

Stage 1: Welcome & kickoff

You sign up and are matched with an Onboarding Manager and, depending on your plan, a dedicated Customer Success Manager. We hold a kickoff call to understand your goals, how you'll use texting, and your target go-live date. Attend the kickoff and come ready to share:

- Your points of contact
- Your texting use case
- How many users and phone numbers you need
- Which tools you want connected
- When you'd like to be live

Done when	You've had your kickoff call and a recap with your onboarding plan and timeline.

Stage 2: Compliance & registration

We register your business with the carriers so your texts are trusted and actually get delivered. There are two paths, and we'll tell you which one fits: 10DLC (for local numbers) or Toll-Free Verification (for toll-free numbers, and the only option for Canadian numbers). We prepare, submit, and manage the entire carrier review for you.

What you'll need ready

This is what speeds everything up.

- Legal business name and EIN / Tax ID, exactly matching your IRS records
- Business address
- A website with a Privacy Policy (including SMS consent language) and Terms
- A compliant opt-in method: web form, paper form, text-to-join keyword, or QR code
- A clear description of what you'll text, plus a couple of sample messages

Done when	Your Brand and Campaign are approved and sending is unlocked on your account.

Stage 3: Account setup

We configure your account so it's ready for your whole team. Much of this runs in parallel with compliance.

- Phone numbers & inboxes: new local numbers, or transfer, port, or host yours
- Users: mapped to inboxes, with assignment rules and business hours
- Roles & permissions: the right people have the right access
- Integrations: your CRM (e.g. HubSpot) and tools like Aircall or RingCentral

What you'll do	Confirm users, numbers, and integrations. We set them up and send a test message.
Done when	Numbers, users, and integrations are live and a test message sends successfully.

Reality check

Approval is decided by the carriers, not by Salesmessage. It is not guaranteed and not same-day. If anything is rejected, we tell you what to fix and resubmit it for you. No messages can be sent until this is approved.

Stage 4: Training

We train your team so adoption actually sticks. This includes a 1:1 admin training session and a group session for your users, covering 1:1 texting, broadcasts, tags, contacts, and calling, plus a walkthrough of your CRM integration and SMS best practices.

Done when	Your admins and users have been trained and have their recap resources and recording.

Stage 5: Go-live & ongoing support

You launch. We check in the morning of go-live to make sure everyone's set, then follow up about two weeks later to clear any blockers and confirm the KPIs you're measuring success by.

What you'll do	Start texting with confidence; loop in your Customer Success team for anything you need.
Done when	You're live, measured, and on a regular check-in cadence.

Quick answers

Why not text right away?	Carriers require registration to fight spam. Until you're approved, they block business texts.
How long is compliance?	Carriers control final approval, usually several business days. Page 2 shows what affects it.
Anything different in Canada?	Yes. Canadian numbers must use Toll-Free Verification; 10DLC isn't available.
Keep our existing numbers?	In most cases, yes. Numbers can be transferred, ported, or hosted during Account Setup.
